Patrick is an award-winning journalist and freelance writer based in Washington, D.C. He is President of Ross Strategic Consulting LLC, providing communications guidance to organizations and individuals. He is an instructor with The Writer's Center in Bethesda, Maryland, and his blog, The Artist's Road, was named a Top Ten Blog for Writers for 2011-2012.

Patrick spent ten years as a reporter covering Capitol Hill, the White House and independent regulatory agencies for publications such as Communications Daily, Washington Internet Daily, and CNET News.com, followed by several years as a senior fellow and vice president for communications with the Progress & Freedom Foundation think tank. For nearly four years he served as the executive director of The Copyright Alliance, a nonpartisan, nonprofit advocacy organization he co-founded. He began his career in Washington as an aide to U.S. Senator Harry Reid (D-NV).

Patrick was educated at Pomona College and Oxford University, and is pursuing a Masters in Fine Arts in Writing with the Vermont College of Fine Arts. He lives in Alexandria, Virginia, with his wife, daughter and son.
